For my first 3 years of school, has been a different experience, learning process and learning how to be in classes again. I have taken the CDL trucking class, Heavy Equipment, and I'm currently going through the Welding program but as I was going through this program my adviser and my brother, they have nudged me toward a degree instead of a certificate so I am currently taking classes to achieve my Associates in General Technology AAS. The reason for the degree approach is because I would like to make my life better for myself and for my family like my parents, brother, sisters, nieces, nephews, and grand kid.
