

Kenneth Miller Sr.

Kenneth D Miller Sr Is a enrollment member of the Crow Creek Sioux tribe Hunkpáti Dakóta Oyáte. Born in Mitchell SD ,he grew up on the Crow Creek reservation. At the age of 16, he lost his mother, Crystal Lynn Miller to cancer . He grew up in way that shows preservice and strength. He found his gift that he shares to the world .

He does original paintings of many things to show who he is and what his past and future holds. He is also a mens traditional champion dancer. He shares these talents, going to places like treatment centers to help kids and in schools and colleges. He also performs these talents for the public at places like the Grand Tetons, Devils Tower and Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming . He does his best everyday to share his gift and gives back so his people can heal and become stronger. His artwork is featured in gallerys across the USA and other countries. His creative talent is natural and he has been influenced by his dad Lyle Miller Sr, who has been his teacher for many years. He is very proud of his work and the process it takes to create .

The headpiece he is wearing is a Dog Soldier Bonnet. Kenny dances the "Traditional Men's" Style reflected by traditional Regalia (attire).

Water Warrior

Sacred Calf

In Mourning

Spiritual Journey

Riding the Stars

Finding the Red Road